Instructions

Prerequisite: HDS account and current master password
German Version: HDS Account aktivieren

The activated HDS user ID offers you the possibility to use central IT services such as webmail, campus Wi-Fi, Stud.IP or the university-wide VPN access.

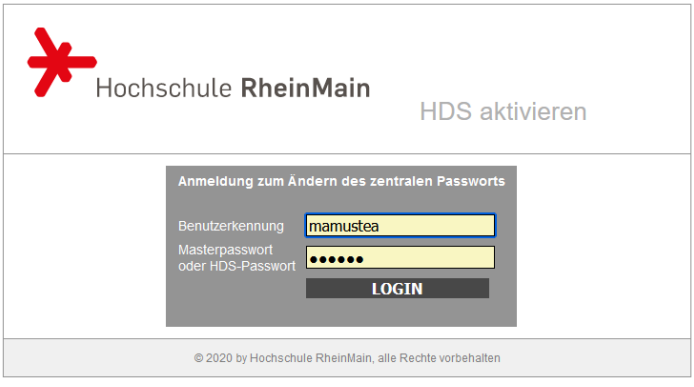

To activate the HDS account, open the website https://hds.hs-rm.de. You will then first see a reference to the user rules, which you must accept.

After confirming with the checkmark and the Next button, you will reach the actual login screen.

Enter your HDS user ID and the valid master password here.

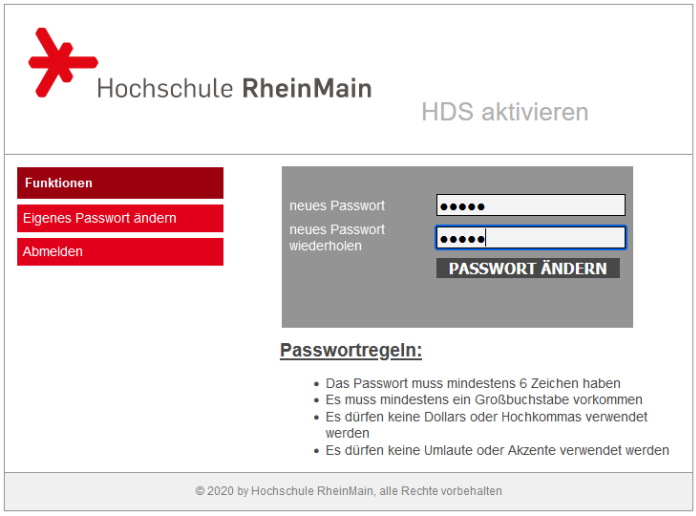

Alternatively, if your account is already activated, you can also enter the current, self-assigned password here.

After logging in, you will be taken directly to the menu item to change the password. Entering a password automatically activates the HDS account.

Please observe the specified password rules when assigning the new password.

After the activation you can use your HDS account with the self-assigned password at all central IT systems.

After clicking the Change password button, you will receive a confirmation if the password has been changed. If there were any errors during the input, you will receive a notice in the input window.
