PRELIMINARY REMARK

On the following pages, you will find all information about the application and admission procedure to Studienkolleg for applicants with foreign certificates (also German nationals with foreign certificates).

The RheinMain University of Applied Sciences is a member of the uni-assist association (service point for international student applications, www.uni-assist.de). All applicants who earned their higher education entrance qualification in a foreign country must apply through uni-assist, regardless of their nationality.

Please read this application information sheet carefully and apply through the uni-assist online portal My assist (<https://my.uni-assist.de/>).

1. UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

RheinMain University of Applied Sciences offers bachelor's degree programs at both study locations Wiesbaden (faculty of Architecture and Civil Engineering, faculty of Design – Computer Science – Media, faculty of Applied Social Sciences and Wiesbaden Business School) and Rüsselsheim (faculty of Engineering). You can find an overview of all the undergraduate and graduate programs on the previous page.

For detailed information on the content of the programs and the admission requirements please check www.hs-rm.de/studienangebot. Read the information carefully to find out whether there are special admission requirements such as an internship, language requirements etc. before you can start studying (after the Studienkolleg) in the degree program of your choice.

2. GENERAL ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS AND INFORMATION

Applicants who do not have a German higher education entrance qualification (or “international applicants”) can study in Germany if their foreign diploma is equivalent to a higher education entrance qualification gained in Germany. Part of the application process is to assess and review your certificates. During the application process, uni-assist checks your certificates to see if they are directly comparable with German higher education entrance qualifications. If this is the case, you have direct entry to higher education and can apply directly for a degree program through uni-assist.

If your diploma is not directly comparable to a German higher education entrance qualification, you will be required to attend a Studienkolleg (preparatory course) before beginning to study and must pass the assessment test.

The following websites provide information on how to assess your local certificate:

www.uni-assist.de/en/tools/check-university-admission/

<http://anabin.kmk.org> (only in German, official data base of the Central Office for Foreign Education)

Furthermore, international applicants must prove that their German language skills are sufficient for studying in Germany.

3. APPLICATION PROCESS FOR STUDIENKOLLEG

You have an indirect university entrance qualification and must attend the Studienkolleg before beginning the desired course of studies. For admission to the Studienkolleg, apply via the uni-assist application portal for the desired degree program.

If you decide to enroll in a restricted-admission program (NC program), you must register in advance via www.hochschulstart.de. After successful registration in hochschulstart.de you will receive an applicant ID (BID) and an applicant authentication number (BAN). You can find your BID and BAN under "My Data." Make a note of your BID and BAN, as they are necessary for the online application at uni-assist. You can see which degree programs have NC in the degree program overview at the beginning of the document.

Submit your application for the desired degree program via My assist. You must answer all mandatory questions. Answer "yes" to the question "Are you applying for admission to a preparatory course at the next possible date?".

When uni-assist assess your certificates, it will then check whether your certificates actually qualify you for admission to Studienkolleg.

3.1. Required German language skills

Applicants with a foreign degree must prove that they have sufficient German language skills to study in Germany, regardless of their nationality.

Hochschule RheinMain accepts the following proof of German proficiency:

- a certificate of a completed German course/German examination with at least level B2 according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages
- proof of at least 800 hours of German lessons.

3.2. Application deadline

uni-assist must receive the application for admission in due form and time with the necessary documents. All mandatory questions have been answered, all required documents uploaded to the uni-assist portal (see checklist) and the application submitted online. The fee must also be received on the uni-assist account by the application deadline. Applications received by e-mail or fax are invalid!

summer semester	winter semester

3.3. The entrance examination

Based on your intended course of study, you will be assigned to the appropriate focus course and invited to take the entrance examination at the Studienkolleg. RheinMain University of Applied Sciences is assigned to the Studienkolleg in Darmstadt (www.stk.tu-darmstadt.de).

The entrance examination for admission to the G course (preparation for history, German studies and social science degree programs) is a language-only examination.

The entrance examination to the T course (preparation for technical, natural science (excluding biology) and mathematical degree programs) consists of a language examination and a mathematics examination.

You can find samples of the entrance examination at www.stk.tu-darmstadt.de.

Whether you take the entrance exam in major G or T depends on your desired course of study. Please check the table on the following page to see which emphasis you need to take.

The Studienkolleg Darmstadt offers the focus course G (preparation for history, German studies, and social science programs) and the focus course T (preparation for technical, natural science (excluding biology), and mathematics programs). For capacity reasons, Studienkolleg Darmstadt cannot offer a specialization course W (preparation for courses in economics). If you still apply for a business program and you have to go to the Studienkolleg, unfortunately your application will be rejected. You can find out which Studienkolleg offers the focus course W on the official website of the Studienkollegs in Germany:

www.studienkollegs.de/Kontaktdaten.html.

3.5. The conditional admission

After passing the admission examination, you will receive a conditional acceptance for a place at Hochschule RheinMain in your chosen course of study. You will first be enrolled at Hochschule RheinMain and then attend the focus course at the Studienkolleg Darmstadt that corresponds to your chosen course of studies (usually two semesters). After passing the assessment test ('Feststellungsprüfung'), i.e. after completing the Studienkolleg you will be admitted directly into the first semester of your chosen degree program after formal application.

4. THE CREATIVE APTITUDE TEST

To be accepted for a first semester on a Communications Design or Media: Conception & Production degree program, applicants are required to pass a "Creative Aptitude test" (or "Prüfung zur Feststellung der künstlerischen Begabung"). This examination takes place at RheinMain University of Applied Sciences every June (for admission to the winter semester) and December (for admission to the summer semester).

Please note the registration deadlines:

Application deadline for the winter semester closes on May 27, for a summer semester on November 27.

Applicants should register for the examination directly at RheinMain University of Applied Sciences, not via uni-assist!

Read about the registration formalities for the program Communication Design here: www.hs-rm.de/pruefung-kd.

You can find the registration formalities for the creative aptitude test as part of the 'Talent Day' for the program Media: Conception & Production here: www.hs-rm.de/de/fachbereiche/design-informatik-medien/studiengaenge/media-conception-production-ba/talent-day#c134252.

Please register for the exam in good time so that you can take advantage of the conditional acceptance to study after the Studienkolleg. Proof of passing the exam is a prerequisite for enrollment in the Bachelor's degree program in Communication Design and in Media: Conception & Production. The result of the exam is valid for three years.

For the admission procedure, the university collects data according to the regulations of the Hessian University Admission Ordinance – 'Hessische Hochschulzulassungsverordnung', HHZV. The university collects data for the enrollment procedure in accordance with the ordinance on the procedure for enrollment, re-registration, leave of absence and de-registration, study as a guest auditor, part-time study and the processing of personal data of students and doctoral candidates at the universities of the State of Hesse ('Hessische Immatrikulationsverordnung') (for the enrollment procedure). There is an order data processing contract with SfH, which ensures that SfH only uses the data for the purpose of carrying out the application procedure and for statistical purposes. SfH will only forward data to third parties, such as institutions, public organizations or research institutes, in anonymized form.

Within the university, the Admissions Office (Studienbüro) has access to your data, the study program offices additionally have access to the data required for the implementation of the study program and, depending on the responsibility, data is passed on to further departments in the university

a) The right to information (Art. 15 GDPR)

If there is no restriction on the right to information pursuant to §§ 24 (2), 25 (2), 26 (2), 33 HDSIG, you can use this right to request confirmation from the responsible body as to whether and, if so, which personal data about you is being processed and for what purpose

b) The right to rectification (Art. 16 GDPR)

Often personal data change or they are incomplete. It does not matter whether the incorrect data seems important or unimportant, as long as it is factual information and there is no restriction of the right to rectification according to §§24 (2), 25 (3) HDSIG, you have the right as a data subject to request the rectification or completion of your data.

c) The right to erasure or oblivion (Art. 17 GDPR)

You, as the data subject, have the right under the conditions specified in Art. 17 GDPR and §34 HDSIG to demand that the responsible party delete personal data relating to you without delay

d) The right to restrict the processing of personal data (Art. 18 GDPR)

You, as the data subject, have the right under the conditions set out in Art. 18 GDPR and (§§24 (2), 25 (4) HDSIG to require the controller to restrict the processing of personal data relating to you. The aim of the restriction of processing is to allow processing only for specific purposes.

e) Notification obligation in connection with the rectification or erasure of personal data or the restriction of processing (Art. 19 GDPR)

If you, as the data subject, have asserted the right to rectification, erasure or restriction of processing against the responsible party, the latter is obliged to notify all recipients to whom personal data relating to you have been disclosed of this rectification, erasure or restriction of processing.

The controller must inform you of these recipients upon request

f) The right to data transmission (Art. 20 GDPR)

You, as the data subject, have the right to data transmission under the conditions set out in Article 20 of the GDPR. The intention is to enable you to have personal data that you have provided to a data controller (hereinafter: the first data controller) made available to you in a format that allows the transfer to another data controller (hereinafter: the second data controller); alternatively, this right also aims at the direct transfer of the data from the first data controller to the second data controller.

g) The right to objection (Art. 21 GDPR)

As a data subject, you have the right to object at any time, on reasons relating to your particular situation, to the processing of personal data concerning you carried out on the basis of Article 6(1)(e) (in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority) or (f) (legitimate interest).

h) The right to revoke the declaration of consent under Data Protection Law (Art. 7 GDPR)

If the data processing has taken place on the basis of consent under Data Protection Law, you have the right to revoke this declaration of consent at any time. The data processing cannot then be reversed for the past, but it can be prohibited for the future.
